

TRESCO WORKS CONTINUES TO SHINE!

Next time you are out on I-25 headed north from Las Cruces, please remember that members of Tresco Works are doing the work to clean, maintain the facilities, including water and sewer, while also keeping the grounds looking good at The Rest Areas between Las Cruces and Albuquerque on I25. Starting July 1st, Tresco Works has assumed the custodial and grounds work at the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) sites just off the interstate near Upham and Rincon. These are a similar contract to the one already in place with the BLM for Aguirre and Dripping Springs sites. Paul Bason, Pablo Hererra and their team are now responsible for the contract. Grounds Maintenance Workers Cheryl Hains and Davi Hasslacher have been doing an awesome job. Members of our team are doing great work at high visibility locations in many places, and this is the latest example of a contract most of us will drive by sometime this year. If you see our team members, stop, say hi and introduce yourself and let them know they are doing a great job.

AUGUST 2022

TRESCO GOES TO WASHINGTON D.C.

Tresco Self-Advocates Lydia Hernandez and Shaun Adcock were among 50 individuals selected from across the nation to attend the annual SourceAmerica Grassroots Advocacy Conference in Washington, DC, June 13-16, 2022. Rosemary Juarez, Tresco Works Community Integrated Coordinator and Stacie Allen, Community Engagement Management were also in attendance. During the event the Tresco team spent four days sharing their employment stories and met with members of Congress to advocate for better job opportunities for persons with disabilities. There was excitement and passion from all the self-advocates in attendance. They were inspiring and showcased the importance of employment opportunities that exist in the AbilityOne Program. In between meetings Lydia, Shaun, Rosemary and Stacie enjoyed taking in the beautiful scenery, visiting various monuments, making new friends and stopping by the White House!

Many thanks to the Tresco Advocacy team for sharing the work that we do in New Mexico and helping to influence policy change regarding employment opportunities for persons with disabilities.

SOUTHERN NEW MEXICO TRANSITION FAIR

The Tresco Talent Management Team participated in the SNM Transition Fair hosted at the Las Cruces Public Schools Administration building. They connected with students who were about to graduate high school, and their family members, to provide information about employment, and training opportunities. It was a great day full of community partners sharing valuable resources, supports and tips on preparing for the next steps.

Tresco managers connect monthly for company updates, trainings and discussions on increasing our mission. During the May managers meeting, leadership made a delicious breakfast!

MEET OUR MISSION

Michael Gallegos has been part of the Tresco custodial and grounds team at the NM Game and Fish Department office in Albuquerque since Tresco took over the contract almost two and a half years ago.

He takes immense pride in managing 16 acres of beautiful, natural New Mexico scenery in the heart of Albuquerque. He shows up with a smile and makes the best of everyone's day. We are truly fortunate to have him part of our team.
